

shoot, the styling, selecting locales and so on. Even while editing the frames, she does it herself. "No outsourcing," she makes it clear because she sees it more as an art and does everything herself. Of course, the perfection she puts into her work is evident not just in the photographs that she delivers but also in the popularity she enjoys among the Delhi's who's who.

Anyone who is a someone in Delhi calls in Priya for shooting family photos now. She, too, has a penchant to put infants – she even shoots 10-day-old babies – at ease. She makes an extraordinary connect with the subjects, which helps her bring out the best of the children or parents or pregnant mothers. Her photographs of pregnant woman have helped many women realize that they were so beautiful while carrying the child in them.

"Families are truly blessings and moments together must be cherished. My style of photography is natural, timeless and fun," says Priya.
